President's Message

Welcome to the new calendar year as League embarks on its annual Program Planning activities at its January 11 meeting. This year we are doing both National and Local Program Planning, and we need your input to ensure that the League keeps moving ahead on topics of interest.

What each local League is being asked to do on National positions is as follows: “the option to propose one new study , OR one review and update, OR one concurrence, OR to decide that no change is recommended.” So please review the National program positions that are found elsewhere in the Voter, and decide whether you want to propose one of these options. Note that due to a change of procedure, it is no longer necessary to vote on retaining national program positions.

For those of you wanting to read more on National League's positions, go to <http://www.lwv.org/content/impact-issues-online-edition>

Be sure to look elsewhere in the Voter for information on Central Yavapai League's local positions and program planning.

LEAGUE ORIENTATION FOR NEW MEMBERS, FRIENDS AND NOT SO NEW MEMBERS

The membership committee is again organizing an orientation session for Saturday, January 14 prior to the General Meeting. The orientation will take place from 8:30 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. at Las Fuentes next to the general meeting room.

This is the time to learn about league's history, the principles that guide the league and what nonpartisanship means. We will review what league does, such as voter service, study and action. Most of all we want to hear what members and friends have questions about.

If you want to participate please contact Alice Harris at alicesharris@gmail.com or 778-6977.

TRANSPORTATION

History of Public Transportation Planning in the Central Yavapai Region

(excerpts from a report prepared by Lindsay Bell on behalf of Territorial Transit)

Planning for public transportation has been a part of many studies for the Central Yavapai Region since 1991. In that year the Prescott Area Transit Study Final Report included a strong recommendation that Prescott consider the development of transit options for the area.

The Tri City Transit Demonstration Project, an outgrowth of the 1991 study, tested the feasibility of applying one or more coordination strategies to the existing social service agency transportation network. This demonstration project lasted for several years, and one of the outcomes was a 1995 Transit Development Plan. The Plan recommended the establishment of a regional transit agency, through intergovernmental agreement, to oversee transit services in the tri-city area.

The Central Yavapai County Transportation Study in 1995 examined alternative transportation options including regional transit service, carpooling, and park and ride components. These same concepts were included in the 1998 update to this study.

1999 saw production of the Yavapai Regional Transit Plan, which project was associated with the Arizona Community Foundation. This study found sufficient technical justification for recommending a higher level of public transportation than what already existed in the County.

A 2005 update to the 1995 Central Yavapai Study was undertaken as a result of the formation of the Central Yavapai Metropolitan Planning Organization (CYMPO) in 2003. This document included multimodal alternative scenarios (including transit) to address the travel demand projected for 2015 and 2030.

The League of Women Voters did a study of public transportation in 2006, including interviews with elected officials and senior management staff with local governments. After also considering the results of previous studies, the League achieved consensus with the following position: “The League of Women Voters of Central Yavapai County encourages and supports the establishment of an affordable and accessible regional public transportation system to serve the needs of residents and visitors in Central Yavapai County.”

CYMPO undertook yet one more study, the 2007 Transit Needs Study, to research the need for transit service and to suggest one or more service delivery alternatives that might be suitable for the regional transit system. A key priority expressed by many local officials and residents was that whatever public transportation system is created, it must be affordable to local governments.

A follow-up to the previous work was the 2009 CYMPO Transit Implementation Plan. The purposes were to refine the preferred transit service alternative, and to draft an implementation plan for the regional transit system. However, the issue of affordability has delayed development of such a system.

2012 Program Planning: National and Local

National Program Planning will be done as it was in 2010. We are being asked to choose ONE and only ONE issue or position for one of the following actions:

- review or update of an existing League position;
- new study or program item;
- concurrence with a position or statement from a local or state League;
- or NO recommendation for change in LWVUS Program.

You will need to

- specify the title of the position or issue,
- and summarize the scope of any update or new study.
- You may become an advocate for your own area of interest, and try to persuade others to support your proposal.

We are no longer being asked whether to retain or drop positions, or for suggestions at this time concerning bylaws, resolutions or budget. Our recommendations will be voted upon at the National Convention early next summer.

Local positions and program will be treated in the more traditional way, with member agreement sought to either Retain - Drop - Update - Re-study, or Change. You may also suggest a new study, but should be prepared to suggest a title, specify a scope, and suggest a chair and study committee members.

The program planning session may generate ideas for new League studies. Unlike many other organizations, in order for the League of Women Voters to take action on public policy issues, we must first study the issue and reach consensus. We study in order to educate our members and the public and we study before considering a consensus that could lead to a position and promote action.

Please review current National and Local Positions in your Membership Handbook, and also look at amplified positions in Impact on Issues on the LWVUS Website <http://www.lwv.org/content/impact-issues-online-edition> Please bring this VOTER and the Handbook to the meeting. If your Member Handbook has disappeared, call Alice Harris to get one. 778-6977 or aliceharris@gmail.com

Orientation for new members will be held before our meeting from 8:30 to 9:30.

In considering possible new studies,
ask yourself the following questions:

- ✓ Is it timely?
- ✓ Is it of interest to our members, to other groups, and to the larger community?
- ✓ Can it be solved by government action?
- ✓ Does it meet League principles?
- ✓ Can the League make a difference?
- ✓ Does it provide opportunities for League action?
- ✓ Will it raise our visibility and credibility?
- ✓ Would we need additional funding?
- ✓ Am I willing to chair or to work on the study

New districts should make for an interesting election season

Population gains found by the 2010 census have resulted in the addition of a new AZ Congressman, two additional Yavapai County Board supervisors, and many changes to former district boundaries. The Arizona Independent Redistricting Commission has approved new congressional and legislative boundary lines for the coming decade, though there may be some changes yet. The state Constitution prohibits consideration of the addresses of incumbents or would be challengers in setting district lines.

CONGRESS: Prescott will no longer be in the district currently represented by Congressman Paul Gosar, but will instead become part of a new district created where there is no current representative. Look for a lively race.

LEGISLATURE: Barring any further boundary changes, more than one out of three lawmakers will be living in new districts encompassing area previously in other districts, where residents were previously represented by someone else. House Speaker Andy Tobin (Paulden) and Rep. Karen Fann (Prescott) will be in new Legislative District 14, stretching from northeastern Phoenix suburbs through most of rural Yavapai Country. This will pit them against another incumbent, Rep. David Smith of Carefree, in the primary election next summer. Senate president-elect Steve Pierce (Prescott) and Sen. Lori Klein (Anthem) would also be opposing each other in the primary.

COUNTY BOARD: Redistricting has re-set the boundaries for the supervisors and added two more seats, for a total of five. With incumbent Carol Springer's announcement that she will not run again in 2012, there are at least three, possibly four, districts without an incumbent running. Nineteen people have expressed an interest in running so far by taking out an election packet from the county Recorder's Office, and every possible candidate but one is a Republican.

A supervisor must live within the district in which he plans to run.

District 1, Springer's seat, covers a new geographical area, the southwest corner of the county, under the new map. Four potential candidates have taken out election packets so far: Kelly Cordes, current Prescott City Councilman John Hanna, and former Prescott Mayor Rowle Simmons, all Prescott residents; and Richard Wertz of Wickenburg, who listed his party affiliation as "other."

In District 2, planning runs are incumbent Tom Thurman, John McReynolds of Camp Verde, and Martin Pangburn of Dewey.

District 3: No one, including incumbent Chip Davis, has pulled an election packet so far for this district. Davis has not said whether he will run again.

District 4, which covers the northwest part of the county, is new and has no incumbent, but has nine potential candidates: Travis Bard, William Blankemeier, Bruce Eldredge, Ray Melhad and Gary Warren, all of Chino Valley; Charles Cruise of Seligman; Lynn Duke of Paulden; and Gary St. Amour of Prescott.

District 5, in the center of the county, also new, has three possible candidates: Tina Blake, Robert Hamill and Jeffrey Tomb, all of Prescott Valley.

Before they can begin to collect signatures, candidates must file information on their election committee, and then they may start circulating nominating petitions. (Hanna, who already holds an elected office, has formed an "exploratory committee.") However, they will not know how many signatures they'll be required to get until after the voter registration tallies are completed in March. The petitions are due in May.
